IMPORTANT REGULATIONS AFFECTING EXCHANGE
VISITOR (J-1) VISA HOLDERS IN STUDENT STATUS

Mandatory Arrival Orientation
You are required to attend an orientation sponsored by the International Affairs. Please contact a Responsible Officer (RO) or an Alternate Responsible Officer (ARO) in International Affairs for further information.

Extension of Stay
Students in J-1 status are allowed to stay in the United States as long as they are pursuing a full course of study and are making progress towards the completion of their academic program. In addition, they may participate in “academic training” after completion of the academic program. To maintain valid status, students must keep their DS-2019 Form valid at all times. Students should contact the RO or ARO in the International Affairs to inquire about academic training procedures and to apply for an extension before their current DS-2019 Form expires.

Change of Category
You are not permitted to change the category within your J-1 visa status to that of researcher while you are in the United States.

Employment
You may engage in two kinds of employment:

- On-campus employment
- Academic training related to your course of study

In all cases, permission for employment is required in advance. Please consult with the RO or ARO in the International Student Resource Center.

Health Insurance
You and your dependent(s) are required to have insurance coverage for sickness or accident during the period of time that you participate in an exchange program. Minimum coverage shall provide:

1. medical coverage of at least $100,000 per accident or illness
2. deductible not to exceed $500 per accident or illness
3. medical evacuation expenses in the amount of $50,000
4. repatriation of remains in the amount of $25,000
Exchange Visitors and any accompanying dependents may also be subject to the requirements of the Affordable Care Act (ACT). Please note: The ACA does not meet the J-1 insurance regulations. Failure to maintain medical insurance coverage for you and your dependents will be cause for termination of your program.

Depending Reporting Requirements

You must report the arrival of your dependent/dependents in the U.S. If your dependent or dependents will leave the U.S. or apply for a change of status, you must report this information in advance of the departure or submission of a change of status application. You may report the information by emailing the us at internationalstudents@ucr.edu.

Two-Year Residence Requirement

You may be subject to the two-year residence requirement as established in Section 212(e) of the United States Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended. The visa officer at the U.S. Embassy or Consulate and the Immigration and Naturalization Service will determine whether or not you are subject to this requirement. In most cases, the decision is based on either the source of your funding (government or international organization) and/or your field of research. The regulations state that if you are subject to this requirement, you are not eligible to change your status to H-1B or F-1, or to adjust to immigrant (permanent resident) status until it is established that you have resided and been physically present in the country of your nationality or your last residence for an aggregate of at least two years following departure from the United States.

Please note: this regulation does not restrict subsequent travel to the United States in any non-immigrant status after completion of your exchange visitor program.

I certify that I have read and that understand the information above. I am in compliance with the insurance requirement for exchange visitors. I have obtained or will obtain the appropriate insurance coverage as indicated above and will maintain the required insurance throughout my stay in the U.S. as an exchange visitor.
